Vinification

Gentle pressing of the grapes followed by clarification of the obtained juice. Alcoholic fermentation begins naturally under temperature control. The wine is aged on fine lees for 9 to 12 months.

Serving

8-10°, aging potential between 2 and 5 years.

Food and wine pairing

With poultry in white sauce, fish, or goat cheese.

Tasting

Our Quincy opens with an expressive nose of fresh citrus and white-fleshed fruits.

On the palate, the attack is lively and elegant, supported by a beautiful freshness that extends into a clean and delicately fruity finish.
